Your Dog and You Canine Training

top dog!

Relationships aren't easy. There's healthy communication, honesty, and spending time with each other. And, of course, the whole pooping in the yard thing.

No, not that relationship (hopefully). We're referring to Your Dog and You.

Dog behavior specialist Christine Nolan, with her so-named canine training service, understands that proper pup manners are a must (especially when living in the city). She offers private in-home consultations, providing surefire solutions to naughtiness like aggression, separation anxiety, and barking at everyone you bring home.

With Nolan's guidance, you'll gain tremendous insight into the way your dog thinks, acts, and communicates. And might even learn a few tricks yourself.

If only there were such a thing for life's other companions.
